CAST OF "BEN HUR"

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY TO TAKE PART IN DRAMATIC PRESENTATION MARCH 30 AND 31

After months of training and special attention by Mrs. Coral Harrison Sloan and her assistants the great dramatic presentation of Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur" will be given in the Palace-Grand theater, Thursday and Friday, March 30-31. Two hundred fifty children will take part in the wonderful spectacle. Mrs. Sloan has bestowed on these children great care and has trained them in a highly creditable manner. Those who know the time and patience it takes to put any kind of finish on untrained human material will appreciate the work that has been done.

It will be seen from the appended program and cast of characters how large an undertaking this is. It should attract a full house on each occasion of its presentation. Mrs. Sloan has been particularly liberal in her aid and assistance to all the church and societies in the city frequently giving free entertainments for all church purposes and for many charitable objects. This has brought her into wide contact with all the sections of the city and has made her remarkable musical and dramatic talents widely known. There is no doubt that on the occasion of the "Ben Hur" presentation, which is the first opportunity the public of Glendale have had to make any acknowledgement of Mrs. Sloan's unselfish work for all manner of societies and public bodies that they will give their patronage to this wonderful dramatic presentation.

A glance at the program shows that the famous novel has been carefully and cleverly prepared for presentation in spectacular form by Mrs. Sloan and the various spectacles should prove wonderfully attractive.

PRECINCTS OF CITY

CITY CLERK SHERER TELLS OF CHANGES IN ELECTION LAW

The holding of an election in California becomes after every meeting of the legislature a more serious and expensive business than ever before. The adoption of the Australian voting system by California some twenty years ago inaugurated a much needed reform, but the original law has been elaborated to such an extent that it has become cumbersome and contradictory in its manifold provisions. For many years there has been a statutory provision to the effect that there shall be a voting place for every two hundred voters, but it was only within the past year that the county supervisors made it effective by creating new precincts in accordance with the intention of the law.

As a result in the City of Glendale there are now fifteen precincts or voting places, and as there are six election officers to a precinct and every officer will probably be paid $10, by the county, it will be seen that the cost of a county or state election in Glendale alone will be near $1,000. The law permits the city to consolidate three precincts or less for a municipal precinct, so that at the coming election of April 10th there will be only five precincts and the thirty election officers will, if paid according to previous scale, receive $3.50 each.

There are 3496 voters in the City of Glendale who have registered since January 1st, 1916, and are therefore entitled to vote at the April election, and to every one of these voters the law requires that a sample ballot and a slip containing the voting number and location of voting place shall be mailed; this item of expense will amount to about $50.00.

It appears that there are still several hundred voters unregistered in Glendale, as the old registration contained 3900 names. Registration for any election ceases thirty days before date of said election, as do also the transfers. There are usually a number of disputes at the polling place on election day in regard to this, but such contentions are quite useless as the law is perfectly plain. There is always a possibility of errors occurring in making up registration lists and voters should as a matter of precaution take to the polling place with them on election day the registration receipt which they were furnished with when they registered.

The five polling places for the April election are located as follows:

Number 1, northwest corner Glendale avenue and Third street.

Number 2, northeast corner Brand and Doran.

Number 3, southwest corner Broadway and Central.

Number 4, northeast corner Brand and Maple.

Number 5, southwest corner Adams and Colorado.

The boundary lines of the precincts are too irregular to be given in an article as brief as this. Polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. There are three candidates for every office to be filled, so there will appear on the ballots fifteen names and three propositions. The sample ballots will give details.

FAMILY DINNER PARTY

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, assisted by her charming daughter, Miss Eula Richardson, entertained informally at dinner Sunday evening, when members of the various Richardson families of Chicago, Glendale and Tropico were present; also Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hickson of San Fernando. As Mr. Hickson and several of the Richardson family were boys and girls together in Chicago years ago, many were the pleasant reminiscences that were related of the past; memories that were long since forgotten by some and yet with others remain as very vivid reminders of the days spent in the Windy City. Long did the guests linger at the pretty rose-decorated table, enjoying the generous hospitality of Mrs. Richardson and Miss Richardson, and relating old and new experiences.

RECEPTION FOR CLUB MEMBERS

There will be a reception at the home of the president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 101 S. Brand boulevard, Thursday afternoon, from 3 to 5 p. m. All club members are invited to be present and to bring their friends.

The Englishman attempted to escape and when the shells began to fall on the vessel it stopped. The German boat then deliberately torpedoed the merchantman. RICH DESERT MINES

T. H. ROSENBERGER DEVELOPS GOLD AND SALT PROPERTIES

T. H. Rosenberger, 147 S. Brand boulevard, is back from his desert mine and is enjoying city life with his family for a season. By and by they will all go back to the mine again. This mine is a valuable smelting proposition in the Searles lake region. It is situated on the high ground overlooking the Potash lake station. Recently it was quite cold out there and the snow was deep. The weather has now changed and the desert has assumed its early spring dress.

The "Ophir" mine, as it has been named, has been developed so far that there are 4000 tons of ore in sight. This ore when smelted yields $40 to the ton. It can readily be seen that this is a most valuable proposition. The ore is being taken out steadily and the mine is on a paying basis.

Three Moreland trucks carry the ore regularly to Searles station on the California-Nevada railway, thence it is taken to Mojave and thence to Midvale, Utah, where it is smelted by the United States Smelting company.

Mr. Rosenberger some time ago had quite an interesting experience with the search for potash that has been going on all over the United States. In the course of his search he came upon the famous "Soda Lake" as it is called, which is situated at Cane Springs on the desert, between Mojave and Searles. This lake had been staked by at least one local man, who, however, had never done any work on it.

Mr. Rosenberger went on to the lake and sank a shaft 30 feet deep. In this he found not potash but something quite valuable—a solution of sodium chloride. This is the common salt of commerce and table use. In this case, however, the salt was 95 per cent pure. After a great deal of experimenting Mr. Rosenberger was able to get this salt in solution by reason of a very heavy snowfall which as it melted afforded the water necessary for making a solution of the salt and pumping it up. This proposition was sold for $150,000 and is being worked today by an Eastern company.

In connection with this soda lake quite a local war arose, the proprietor of Cane Springs claimed a prior location of the lake and by injunction, and a hundred contrivances of the law, delayed the work and occasioned much trouble. On one occasion he constructed a rolling fort and creeping up on the workers opened fire on them with a rifle. After some exciting experiences in the course of which he was fired on several times Mr. Rosenberger and his partner finally bought off their rival.

Recently Mr. Rosenberger has been prospecting for magnesite, the mineral which the war has suddenly brought into prominence and increased so greatly in value.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL CAR

A daring attempt to steal an auto that was standing in front of a residence was made Sunday night by a man who got away unrecognized. The car belonged to Mrs. E. W. Richardson, 805 S. Central avenue. The man is believed to have been in the Palace-Grand theater at the evening show. He was observed to walk down Brand boulevard and afterward to cross to Central.

The car was standing in front of the Richardson residence and no precautions had been taken to secure it in any way. No one saw the man get into the car but two young boys who knew the car seeing it move off thought they would like a ride with the Richardsons and ran after it shouting . This frightened the thief, who had both doors of the car wide open, apparently for emergencies. He stopped the car and jumping out ran away. No trace of him has been discovered. The practice of leaving cars unguarded is one that may easily be disastrous. There are scores of auto thieves in Los Angeles and it is likely that they will extend the scope of their operations.

G. U. H. SCHOOL PLAY

The advertising committee for the play to be given by the Glendale Union High School Alumni association met at the home of Miss Gladys Anderson, 203 Orange street, Tuesday evening. The occasion of the meeting was to discuss ways and means of putting the play before the public, which will be given in the near future. Every one was full of enthusiasm and all agree that this will give Glendale something new and startling in the theatrical line. Miss Ruth Pierce is chairman of the committee.

SCHOOL AND CAMPUS

The excitement over the election has been unusually great this year and everyone is looking forward to the campaign speeches. Those nominated so far are: For president—Marion Lehman, Herbert Sheuner; for vice-president, Hardy Preeman; for treasurer, Jeanette McLennan, Florence Heacock; for senators (5 to be elected)—Harland Durand, Mildred Wight, Fred Dodge, Thomas White, Fanny Hagin, Milton Brown; for members of executive committee—Lynden Keyes, Carlton West, Robert Carmack, Don Phillips, Earl Brown; for yell leader—Fred Dodge.

Oratorical Contest

The representatives in the Interclass Oratorical contest, to be held Friday night, March 7, are: From the Senior class, Miss Ethyl West; from the Junior class, Dan Hagin; from the Sophomore class, Marion Lehman, and from the Freshmen class, Robert Carmack. Ethyl West will speak upon "Vocational Education in California Schools." Dan Hagin's subject is "The Independence of the Philippines." Marion Lehman will speak on "Preparedness" and Robert Carmack on "Boy Scouts."

J. Purman Bennett, the winner of last year's oratorical contest, will act as chairman. The designing of the booths is occupying the attention of the different classes at present.

The first league baseball game was played and won by Alhambra Saturday, but the local team made a very good showing, as Alhambra is going at mid-season form. The team is slowly rounding into shape, and expect to win the remaining games. As we play ten league games, instead of five, the loss of Saturday's game does not put us out of the running for the pennant and we expect to bring the pennant to Glendale this year.

General Notes

We were glad to see many of the alumni at school this week. Edith Waterman and Adele Drake, now attending L. A. Normal, and Mayme Smith and Homer Bullard were among the visitors.. We were also glad to see some of the old tennis sharks on our courts again. Elmer Nelson, Ed Sadler, Cecil Crandall and Morse Preeman showed us that they hadn't forgotten how to wield the racquets.

A baseball game between Glendale and Poly will take place this afternoon.

Spring vacation time is near, April 14.

The contest for the prize jokes for the Stylus will close very soon. If you intend to compete for the prize you had better get busy. Up to the present time very few have entered the contest, so anyone with a few original jokes has a splendid chance for the prize, two copies of the "Stylus" or one dollar.

The Juniors announce that they will give a very high class pay assembly this afternoon. The skit they will present is entitled "The Burglars." The cast consists of Katherine Renshaw, Evangeline Hunchberger, Jeannette McLennan, Margaret Boucher and Helen Harden.

The Scrubbie Scrubs have elected their officers for the next year. They are: President, Frank Balthis; vice-president, Eleanor Gregg; secretary, Martha Ray; treasurer, James Current; yell leader, Robert Wilcox.

The Freshmen have their plans for the oratorical booth already made.

COMING POST-WAR CHANGES IN BRITAIN

That the war will bring land reform to the people of the British islands is a practical certainty. Ireland already has been granted a land purchase bill that makes it possible for the people of that "most distressful" country to own their own land. The people of England and Scotland have no such excellent measure of land reform; but they expect to get it, after the war is over. It has long been argued that the land will not support the people. That is an argument used naturally by the landlords, who do not desire the creation of a large body of small landowners at their expense.

Anyway after the fighting has ceased the people of England and Scotland are likely to see something like Gladstone's "three acres and a cow" come into existence. To say that the land would not support the people is to argue against facts. The soil in many parts of the country is very poor, it is true; but even in the Scottish highlands, in parts of the country where the land is half peat-bog, the hardy and thrifty crofter manages to subsist along with his family on five acres, with the privilege of cutting his fuel out of the peat-bogs.

It may be that close economy would be needed were the British isles to be called on to support their population independently of outside nations, but it could be done. An equitable distribution of land would check the tendency toward the reprehensible crowding into the city, which has resulted in the demoralization and degeneration of a large section of the population.

All through the years that have passed millions of the English people have been continuously on the verge of starvation. The landowners clinging to the land granted them under the old feudal system ages ago fed deer, rabbits, partridges and grouse and cast the people out to starve, crowding them into the cities, disorganizing the labor market and creating frightful conditions of unemployment.

In some cases in days gone by the hardy peasants who inhabited vast stretches of land in the north of Scotland were evicted wholesale and shipped off to Canada. The glens, like Strath Naver in Sutherlandshire, which once supported thousands of the Highland people, are now all desolate and bare, save for the presence of sheep.

Vast tracts of land all over the British isles have been farmed only by tenants who, while doing all the work, were allowed only the most meager livelihood. The landlords got the share of the country's products by virtue of no service—of nothing but the most unjust of monopolies.

All this is going to be changed—after the war—according to some of the best British authorities on social questions. It is agreed that hundreds of thousands of men who have now obtained a taste of a broader existence than that they had been living at home will refuse to go back to the old conditions. It is suggested on all sides that the men who have been fighting will force the landlords to dispose of their great holdings at reasonable prices, on some such purchase basis as that which prevails in Ireland. Others favor a more or less close approximation to the Single Tax.

It is manifest to all in Britain that the old order has changed and that new conditions will take its place. There will be land reform and labor reform and an immense emigration to the colonies with an extraordinary betterment in the lot of the masses in England.

WOMEN IN MEN'S WORK

When it was found necessary to employ women in various jobs that have hitherto been confined to men an outcry was immediately raised that the advent of the female element would mean disaster. It has been found just the reverse. There seems to be no reason why women should not perform many duties that men have been doing when there is necessity for them.

In the street car business women in England, France and Germany are to be found doing the work formerly done by men with neatness and dispatch. All predictions that there would be an increase in the number of street accidents have been falsified. Women have made admirable conductors and have rarely failed to master their duties.

It has been found that in handling and reversing the trolley and in managing the brake system the women have been just as ready as the men and have been equally faithful in all sections of their work. Naturally after the war there will be a readjustment of work It is certain, however, that quite a number of women will remain in their new employments and that there will be an opening of employments to them in all lands.

SUSPENSION OF SPORTS IN ENGLAND

It was the Duke of Wellington, the conqueror ot Napoleon, who was credited with having said that the battle of Waterloo was won on the cricket fields of England. Just before the war broke out and during the time of the Boer war there was an outcry against the playing of cricket when men were needed at the front. Rudyard Kipling sang of "the flanneled fools at the wickets and the muddied oafs at the goals." But it was realized after the poet's outburst that the cricketers and football men were on the field of battle by the hundred and the old duke's saying could be easily understood when it was seen that the men of athletic tendencies were by no means the last at the front.

In the present war the cricket fields of England and the football games have been sadly diminished as far as numbers are concerned. Of course there is now and then a cricket match that shows that men must play even though serious interests are at stake. But the men who are playing are men who are already on the volunteer roll and are trained to go to the front.

At the front itself there are hundreds of the first-class cricketers and football players of England. Many of the men whose names were household words for scoring "centuries" have been killed in the trenches, both in Flanders and on the Bosphorus. The athletes of Oxford and Cambridge have not shirked their national duties and the men of the Scotch universities and the students of the Sorbonne in Paris—the men who had international records for athletics—they are all either dead on the field of battle or still in the trenches. Incidentally it is a healthy sign of the morale of the American expeditionary force in Mexico that the other day they unearthed a baseball outfit from their baggage and played a game for the benefit of the natives of "Mananaland."

IRELAND TO MEN

BROTHERHOOD NIGHT BRINGS GREAT SERVICE AT M. E. CHURCH

"Brotherhood Night" was observed at the First Methodist church revival mission last night. The men of the Brotherhood occupied the center section of seats and made a fine showing. A number of men from the Presbyterian Brotherhood joined in the service after their regular business meeting. In addition to these visitors a company of West Glendale Methodists attended in a body.

Evangelist Ireland was in a mood for intense, earnest preaching. His humor and wit were largely sidetracked and he plunged into his service with vigor. Ireland is not a man who spares himself and when deeply moved his speech becomes rapid and strikes like an electric hammer.

When the Presbyterian Brotherhood came in the evangelist said, "There will be no Methodists in heaven." This provoked a smile, when Mr. Ireland added, "We shall all be one. God will not look at our tags."

In calling upon men in his sermon to stand for the high things of Christianity, Mr. Ireland said, "You cannot carry religion in your wife's name. You cannot carry religion in your mother's or your father's name. Salvation is an individual matter. Then puff up like pouter pigeons and say that religion is a good thing for their wives and children. Is it any sign of manhood to carry religion in your wife's name and ask her to do the religious duties of the home. Why don't men ask their wives to drink their whiskey for them and to swear for them? Men would lengthen the days of their wives if they would only perform the duties of Christian men in the home.

There are seven men in our prisons to one woman. Men drink a barrel of whiskey where women drink a pint. They chew a ton of tobacco where women chew a pound. If men are not religious it is not because of their superior intellect, but because of their greater baseness.

In speaking of the place of the churches and the Gospel in a community, Ireland called attention to Liberal, Missouri, which was originally founded as a town that would shut out all churches and preaching, but when the promoters found that their enterprise died on their hands, they sent out a call for the churches. You may try to get along without God, but you cannot build a community on that program. Men cannot presume upon God or the length of life."

The special musical numbers were a tenor solo by Mr. Lyons and a selection by the male quartet.

Tonight will be "Sisterhood Night." Mr. Ruenitz, one of the well-known singers of Los Angeles, will be heard.

NEW FRUITS FOR CALIFORNIA

Dried Persimmons, avocado flour and carob or locust-beans are some of the new joys likely to be added to life in California, thanks to the University of California's new correspondence course in semi-tropical fruits, prepared by Professor I. J. Condit of the Division of Citriculture.

The aim is to help develop some of the rich variety of semi-tripocal fruits which experiment has now shown suited to California conditions. There is already a considerable acreage of commercial orchards of the Japanese persimmon. This luscious fruit adorns the fruit-markets of San Francisco and is being shipped East. Some of the varieties grown in California are so free from astringency that when crisp they can be nibbled like an aple. Few persons have as yet, however, discovered the delightful possibilities of drying persimmons for use as a sort of confection or cooked as a table delicacy.

One new fruit from Uruguay, the feijoa or pineapple guava, has been found able to stand as low a temperature as ten degrees. Its flavor and its delicious fragrance are making strong claim to recognition.

Californians are finding palatable the carob bean, or St. John's bread, an important source of food in Southern Europe. This bean promises value also as a feed for horses and other domestic animals. The trees will grow even on rough hillsides where moisture is rather scanty.

The cherimoya or custard apple is declared by the University one of the most appetising semi-tropical fruits ever introduced into California. These large, soft fruits, however, need to be wrapped in cotton and carried in wagons with good springs to reach market safely. The University advocates growing them primarily as a family-orchard fruit and as an exceedingly desirable addition to the table of the Southern California farm home.

LECTURE ON TURKEY

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Gerritson of Los Angeles have been visiting at the home of their niece, Mrs. William Van Hazelen of West Park avenue.

The Tropico Choral club under the able direction of Charles Stewart, held the final rehearsal Tuesday evening for the cantata "Ben Hur," which performance will be given Thursday evening, in the First Presbyterian church of Tropico.

This is the largest and best musical production ever given in Tropico and it is regretted that the Auditorium will be inadequate for the large audience who desire to enjoy this cantata.

Director Stewart has been untiring in his efforts to produce this cantata and with the hearty co-operation of the forty or more members of the club has succeeded admirably as was evidenced at the final rehearsal. The principals in the delightful musical aggregation are Mrs. Charles Stewart, soprano; Miss Dorothy Hobbs, mezzo soprano; Mrs. Joy Nash Ford, contralto; Wayland Brown, tenor; Eugene J. Bayha, basso; Miss Katherine Hobbs, accompanist. The chorus numbers some of the best musical talent of our city and includes Mrs. Wayland Brown, Mrs. John Hobbs, Mrs. Andy Stephenson, Mrs. Clyde R. Carmack, Mrs. eGorge Adams, Mrs. Edgar Fry, Mrs. K. E. Hollingsworth, Mrs. Merritt W. Ludden, Mrs. Arthur J. Van Wie, Mrs. L. G. Dodge, Mrs. Richardson, Miss Thirza Snell, Miss Eunice Jones, Miss Carrie Stone, Miss Phoebe Snell, Miss Ruth Ryan, Miss Kathleen Dodge, Miss Sadie Snell, Miss Esther Jones, Miss Lois Duncan, Miss Elsie Anderson, Miss Eleanor Collins, Miss Stewart, Miss Reva Richardson, Dr. P. O. Lucas, Dr. Richardson, Paul Rider, J. Herbert Smith, F. C. Richardson, John Hobbs, Edgar Fry, J. A. Adams.

One of the most delightful features of "Ben Hur" will be the dramatic reading and interpretation of the cantata by Mrs. Wayland Brown, given in her own inimitable and original manner. "The Chariot Race," with its many musical and dramatic thrills, will be most realistic.

The Hosanna chorus, which represents Ben Hur, his mother, sister and the servant Amrah, as the principals, with the full chorus in the background. The grand finale will be the crucifixion, in which Dr. Lucas, Eugene J. Bayha, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Stewart will appear, with the chorus, is one of the most beautiful of the cantata.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

The Tuesday Afternoon Club met Tuesday, March 28, in the Masonic Temple as usual. The delegates to the Hollywood convention gave ten-minute reports of the work there. These reports were handed in by Mrs. E. W. Kinney, Mrs. Daniel Campbell and Mrs. C. E. Harlan. The result of the parliamentary drill at the Hollywood convention was reported by Mrs. Helen Campbell who stated that the Tuesday Afternoon club was represented by herself and had received the banner for three months. There were four contestants standing when time was called.

A resolution to indorse Mrs. C. H. Toll's candidacy for membership in the Glendale schoolboard was adopted.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell, the speaker of the day, discussed various amendments before the legislature, pertaining to the welfare of women and children. She explained the sections of the present code relative to community property and gave many reasons as to the necessity of an amendment which would give the wife equal rights with the husband in disposing of this kind of property.

In speaking of a proposed bill suggested by Sidney N. Reeve, of the Juvenile court, relative to State aid for defective children a point was made of the economic value in providing proper training and education for children physically and mentally defective, previous to their becoming waifs of the court, instead of waiting until some crime had been committed by the child to bring it under the court's jurisdiction. Under the present system, many children must be sent to the reform school who could be developed into useful citizens through the adoption of this measure.

The Women Juror bills were explained in detail, the speaker citing cases illustrating reasons why women as well as men should be upon juries in cases involving women. The necessity of some adequate relief for dependent mothers was urged, the speaker referring to the Mothers' Compensation bill whereby mothers could care for their own children instead of having them sent to state institutions.

GLENDALE FOOTHILLS

The Mothers' Reading Circle is meeting today at the home of Mrs. C. H. Toll, Kenneth road.

Mrs. S. C. Bierbower, 922 Fairview avenue, is entertaining a large party of friends this afternoon.

Mr. Boggs of 1022 Stocker street, has progressed considerably in his improvements on his property. The greater part of the ground connected with the property has been plowed and harrowed and the work of putting in shrubbery is being begun.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ingalls of Waukegan, Ill., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Black of Kenneth road. The Ingalls are relatives of the Blacks. They will make a brief visit to this locality.

Phil Felton, the well-known real estate agent of N. Brand boulevard, is something of a poet; also though born under the scepter of a monarch a strong republican. His republicanism and his poetical appreciation of the beauties of California he has embodied in the following verses, which he suggests some of the musical talent of Glendale might set to music:

THE GOLDEN STATE

The whole world looks towards the West,
To the glorious Golden State;
The State supreme above the rest,
The land of the Golden Gate;
With its splendid groves and vineyards,
With its ever verdent hills,
Its smiling, fertile valleys,
Its factories and its mills.

By the smiling old Pacific
For a thousand miles or more,
With a matchless sky above us,
Runs our ever golden shore;
The land of opportunities
To those who would be free,
The Golden State with the Golden Gate
Down by the western sea.

We recognize no royalty,
No dominating few,
This is the land of equal rights
For men and women, too;
While the Golden Gate is open
For friends to come and go,
We keep our watch dogs ready
To take care of any foe.

CHORUS

Let others boast of the State they love,
While is just as it should be,
But the Golden State with the Golden Gate
Is the only State for me.

FOUND HER BOY DEAD

When Jesse Brown, 17, disappeared from his home at Delta on Washington's birthday, his mother set out to find him. She found him Wednesday, and today is preparing to bury him. After many weeks fruitless search the mother was returning home on a fast moving train. Near the river's edge five miles south of Antler she saw her boy lying asleep—she thought. The train stopped and she hurried back. Her boy was dead—not asleep.

When doubt and suspicion join hands there is a hot time on hands.

Miss Virginia Graham has opened a dressmaking establishment in the Broadway apartments, where she has secured a convenient apartment. Miss Graham is an expert dressmaker and is widely known in that capacity in Glendale. She will be assisted in her business by Mrs. L. Kirri.

INTERNATIONAL COMMISSION

The point of the new method of dealing with international disputes is that it is prompt and business-like and gets right to the core of the trouble. The International Joint Commission is before all things a tribunal for the people, the American and Canadian people. The man with a legitimate grievance against his neighbor on the other side of the line knows that he can bring it for final settlement before a court that is not merely Canadian or American, but international, vested with powers possessed by no other tribunal in either country. And because he knows that he has this privilege, his grievance is no longer magnified into a monstrous wrong, but in nine cases out of ten finds its own settlement in the common-sense and good-feeling that are the natural heritage of neighbors on either side of the boundary.—Review of Reviews.

In the heart of many a lassie is the old Indian spirit delighting in courting the scalps strung on the belt.

USE FOR OLD EVENING GLOVES

Do you know what to do with the tops of the glace evening gloves that have been cleaned as many times as they should be? Make the longest tops, which from elbows to shoulders are very wide indeed, into a handkerchief case of the envelope type, says the New York Tribune. The best way of joining the sides of the case is to buttonhole stitch the edges together. This may be done effectively with colored silk floss matching the embroidery on the flap, which usually carries most of the decoration. Designs developed with tiny colored or tinsel beads are exquisite on these cases, as well as upon the balloon bags in various size—for powder puff, hairpins, etc.—into which glove ends, according to their length, are now being fashioned.

WORK APRONS

For women who are still old-fashioned enough to wear work aprons when doing light needlework, there are many dainty little silk affairs. The aprons are made of figured taffeta silk, are 18 inches long, 20 inches wide and have two pockets, one on either side, joining in the center where the stitching comes up to a point three or four inches below the waist-line. The pockets are lined with plain silk, the color of the flowers in the taffeta design, and the entire apron, pockets included, is edged with narrow plaited, picot-edged ribbon, the same color as the lining of the pockets. The belt band and ties are of the ribbon.

SEASONING CAST IRON

In the manufacture of the higher types of machinery care is taken to lessen the cooling stress of iron castings by annealing or some other means in order to make the iron homogeneous and less liable to breakage or distortion. This process is known as "seasoning." It has been found in the case of ordinary test bars one inch square in section that there was a gain in strength of about 20 per cent due to the shocks sustained during an hour in a tumbling barrel is compared with companion bars from the same ladle not so treated.

LOBSTER STEW

Scald one quart milk with pinch of soda, add two pounds lobster, chopped, and one can of tomato soup. Boil five minutes. Mix one third cup flour, one third cup milk, and add to mixture. Add one quarter pound butter, a little salt, pepper and cayenne. This makes four large portions.

SILK AND SATIN COATS

The silk and satin coats of our grandmother's day are pronounced favorites this spring. They are made full skirted, gathered on to the waists and trimmed with the old-fashioned pinked ruchings. In fact, the coats are so quaint that one glances around furtively, half expecting to see the corded calash bonnet with its silken bridle, or the old-fashioned poke with a rose at each side and ribbons that tie under the chin.
